What are Enablers?
Enablers are the backbone of Human Sex Traffickers ecosystem. Enablers are purchased in their quest of notoriety, status, and power for a price no matter their occupation or industry. There are so many individuals knowledgeable about what is happening within the Human Sex Trafficking industry, institutions, organizations, companies, abroad and in our neighborhoods who turn a blind eye. If anyone is aware of such crimes and does nothing to stop them by reaching out to law enforcement or creating laws and bills to protect humanity, or suppress bills, they are all accountable despite social economic backing-grounds and choose profits over humanity, they are complicit and silent participants in the crimes.

If someone witnesses or has knowledge and takes no actions to expose, confront, or report, especially those in law enforcement, government roles or religious organizations which are the biggest establishments in the U.S., they are willing participants called enablers. By not taking any action, enablers are willing participants in the cover up facilitating harmful behavior. An enabler's actions, even if unintentional, allow a person to continue unhealthy patterns that destroy and obliterate the human spirit.

Enablers oftentimes make excuses or deny any knowledge for the crimes and behavior of the individuals, governments or religions committing the crimes. What happens when an enabler denies from knowing or seeing such crimes, it informs the criminals that it's not only ok to commit the crime, but it allows the criminals to expand their operations knowing others will not speak out. This exacerbates the situation and crimes.

Enablers willing or unwilling become protectors of the criminals and crimes taking place by keeping the crimes secret, the criminals are isolated from accountability. Denying the problems or crime minimizes the situation to themselves and others. They may be in denial about the extent of the problem. If one turns a blind eye once, it becomes easier to repeat without holding themselves or others accountable. This will change a person's psychological perspective on life and crimes, creating unhealthy destructive life patterns and choices. The individual is now avoiding personal responsibilities to the well being of humanity and themselves. Nothing good or positive will ever become of being an enabler.

It's one thing to hear that something is going on because it could be untrue. If a person actually bears witness to any Human Sex Trafficking cruelty, it becomes factual. Many enablers believe if they do not bear witness to the actual crimes, they are not involved. If a person in a position of power has clear evidence pointing to Human Sex Trafficking and votes against a bill or law preventing it from taking place or not closing a loophole from these crimes taking place, they are a willing participant in the crime as enablers and should be voted out.

Individuals in such positions will often choose power, career, and wealth over humanity because their older peers and parents have convinced them in life training and learned behavior that they are not directly involved in the crimes. It's difficult for someone who is raised in a privileged life into power to connect with the poor or a status class that is not equal to them. They are so disconnected by living on such a different platform. They consider their actions as enablers normal because everyone around are willing participants as well as normalizing the behavior and that form of thinking.

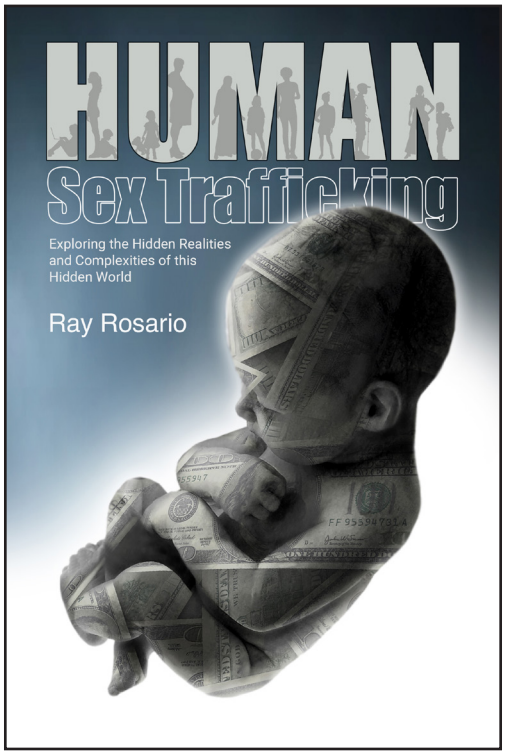

It may take one of these crimes hitting home or close to home in order for them to connect with what is occurring and what they are a part of. They would then need to take steps to change their ways of seeing and processing life in order to create change. Enablers aren't born, they are bred into it with learned behavior and without accountability.

Enablers are also created. For example, in a more commonly recognized scenario, those who seek fame in the film or music industry, are invited to events or parties where unscrupulous behavior and abuses take place to adults and minors. They bear witness to such actions and know with a clear understanding that if any of what they saw is leaked to the public, their careers will end in industry and with damage control, a smear campaign goes into progress against them. They will most likely choose the wrong path because of their dreams of fame and fortune.

An enabler who is created will remain as one, in time, this plants the seed, then personable desecration will become second nature behavior and truth.

They start to believe that they did nothing wrong and discretion becomes normalized in their behavior, never thinking twice of it until they are called out on it or they are forced into an indirect situation where their consciousness and guilt is forced into the frontal cortex dealing with what they buried deep.

We know that over 85% of the U.S. governing body is compromised along with our liberties, our laws, our safety, our rights, our freedom, our speech, and our future due to so many enablers and legal bribes. Enablers may not start off that way but quickly become one when power and wealth come into play submitting their loyalty to unjust behavior that causes nothing but harm to humanity.
